ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A dermatic cosmetic material containing as a substrate a silicone composition paste comprising (i) a cross-linked silicone polymer having hydrophilic polyoxyalkylene groups wherein polyoxyethylene moieties are comprised, which functions as a thickener component, and (ii) a silicone oil, thereby enabling stable incorporation of an antiperspirant or water-soluble vitamins and further ensuring improvements in usability.